

HARRY BOSK | CONTRIBUTOR

2 1/2
minutes

Susan V. Boone

De Novo Attorney Services

TITLE: President

AGE: 54

You run a process server business. What do you serve?

It's a mix between domestic papers for divorce or child custody, and collection work. A little bit of both. It means getting the job done for any attorney, anywhere, anytime, anyplace.

What drives success?

In Maryland you don't have to be licensed, it can be anybody over 18 as long as they are not party to the action. So you have to have well-trained, seasoned people who do this for a living, as opposed to Joe Smith who lost his job and wants to knock on doors and serve a few papers. Experience is the key, knowing when to go, what times of day to go.

How can I avoid getting served?

Don't do anything wrong in the first place, so you don't need to get served. Then be vigilant about who is around you. When you walk to your car, when you walk to work, you just have to pay attention — unless you just want to move out of state. But eventually we will get you. We don't give up.

What do you think of when I say the letter "b"?

Beautiful. Right now I am in Ocean City looking out at the Atlantic Ocean. My family is healthy and we're all in town together, so it doesn't get much more beautiful than that.

Why did you get into serving?

I practiced law for about five years and I guess I just had an entrepreneurial spirit. This seemed like a way to have a business and to keep my hand in law without actually practicing law. I liked having a service business as opposed to a business that had inventory.

ADAM STONE | Contributor